

ACNM NEEDS YOU! Call for Nominations to Quality Initiatives

Good news: the health care quality and patient safety movement has discovered maternity care, and a number of initiatives are underway that offer the opportunity to bring tangible improvements in childbirth outcomes. ACNM's goal is to ensure that our members participate as prominently and actively as possible as leaders in this movement.

ACNM has an immediate need for volunteers to represent the ACNM community to the many exciting safety and quality initiatives that are emerging around the country. There are a variety of high-profile opportunities for ACNM members right now! We need to identify interested members immediately in order for midwifery to have a voice in these important health care arenas.

Ideal candidates will have a strong background in quality, patient safety, and performance measurement in midwifery practice, women's health, maternity or perinatal health care. Knowledge of policy trends and familiarity with midwifery peer experts and/or nursing organizational leadership is preferred. Candidates with diverse racial/ethnic/cultural backgrounds are especially encouraged to apply.

If you are interested, please send a current CV and letter of interest to Tina Johnson (tjohnson@acnm.org) or Monica Greenfield (mgreenfield@acnm.org), or contact them for more information on emerging opportunities.

As these appointments are finalized, ACNM will provide additional information about the specific quality initiatives we are participating in and our representatives to these initiatives.
